

Eau Claire's Bold Resolution

By Chris Perillo, Interim Executive Director

The Eau Claire Board of Education recently passed a resolution on school funding. They are calling for a one cent sales tax increase to help make up the funding for public education that has been re-allocated in recent years.

Some of the problem goes back to the revenue caps that were put in place during the 1993-1994 school year. These caps limit the funding that schools can collect in state aid and property taxes combined. The net effect is a severe limit on school spending that occurs regardless of the changing needs of a school district.

In the case of Eau Claire, this cap trapped the district in a revenue limit below the state average for per pupil spending. Since the implementation of the caps, Eau Claire school district has changed, and now 40 percent of students rely on wrap-around services provided by the district.

Because of the revenue limits, any additional state dollars coming in to Eau Claire for preK-12 general education aid goes directly to reducing property taxes instead of to the classrooms.

The Eau Claire Board of Education had enough and passed a resolution on September 12 calling for additional funding through a one cent sales tax increase to generate an additional $850 million dollars state-wide. This money would be allocated annually for public schools and is a part of a plan to reform the funding formula.

This school year, the general equalized aid will be less than it was in 2010. When adjusted for inflation this is a 12.5 percent cut in support per pupil since 2008. Even with the new non-compounding additional per pupil categorical aid, students are receiving fewer actual dollars than they did in 2010, far less than needed to keep up with the cost of living.

Kudos to the Eau Claire Board of Education for taking a stand against the continued inequities in the formula, and pressing for change for the benefit of Wisconsin's future and for the benefit of all public school students and their families.
